Published by the Virginia Association of Chiefs of Police
Dear Virginia public safety official:

In December, 1999, the Virginia Association of Chiefs of Police published the first edition of the “Law Enforcement Guide to the Virginia Freedom of Information Act.” The booklet was distributed to law enforcement agencies across Virginia, and has been used extensively as a training manual and field guide for officers.

The Association published a second edition of this guide in 2002. This year, the VACP is producing this third edition with updated legal references and practical guidance.

The Virginia Association of Chiefs of Police would like to thank Mr. Warren Carmichael, retired Public Information Officer for the Fairfax County Police Department, for authoring this guide. Special thanks also to the Virginia Criminal Justice Services Board and Director Leonard Cooke of the Department of Criminal Justice Services for their support of this effort.

We hope that this guide will help Virginia law enforcement agencies in understanding the Virginia Freedom of Information Act and in responding effectively to information requests from the media and the public.

Background

The Virginia Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) (Section 2.2-3700) of the Code of Virginia), an open records and meetings law, was initially enacted in 1968. No significant revisions were made until 1988-90. At that time, the previous blanket exemption for criminal investigative records of law enforcement agencies was modified slightly to require release of “criminal incident information” for felonies, with certain exceptions. 1999 revisions made no changes regarding the release of criminal investigative records, but did consolidate all references to the release of law enforcement records in one place. In addition, a blanket FOIA exemption applying to all records maintained by law enforcement agencies under Section 15.2-1722 was deleted from that section, and new language exempting certain non-criminal investigation records was included within FOIA itself. Amendments between 2002 and 2005 slightly expanded and clarified several exemptions and added several others. While FOIA covers both public records and public meetings, this guide primarily addresses questions relating to records, which are the questions most frequently confronted by law enforcement officials.

Overview and Philosophy

Law enforcement agencies in Virginia continue to enjoy one of the broadest exemptions for releasing information of those in all of the states. The Virginia FOIA contains ample provisions to safeguard information essential to the accomplishment of the law enforcement mission. In addition to extensive protection for criminal investigative information, adequate protection also is provided for sensitive information gathered by law enforcement agencies in the course of conducting investigations of non-criminal matters.

With the ability to withhold much information goes the responsibility not to abuse that discretion. This can best be accomplished by adopting a “predisposition to disclose.” Using this approach, an agency identifies only that information which must be withheld rather than that which must be released under FOIA. It is important to keep in mind that FOIA does not prohibit the release of any information. Information which is exempted may be released at the agency’s discretion, and frequently an agency may find that it serves its best interests to do so. It is an established fact that law enforcement benefits when citizens are informed to the maximum extent possible.

Requests for Information

There is neither a requirement nor a prohibition that a FOIA request must be in writing. An agency may adopt a policy that asks for written requests, which may be particularly desirable if a significant number of records or amount of information is involved. This insures that the requestor supplies the “reasonable specificity” that the act requires, and helps avoid instances where the requestor objects that the information provided was not what was requested, particularly if there are charges for research and photocopying. However, if a requestor declines to put the request in writing, it still must be responded to as if it were a FOIA request. A verbal request for records constitutes a FOIA request. It is not required that a requestor specifically cite FOIA when making a request.

There are some practical considerations in handling requests for information. Many verbal requests, particularly for a single record or limited information, can be fulfilled informally, easily and promptly. Some requestors may not know precisely what they are looking for and thereby request far more than they really need. It is good practice (and good public relations!) to work with them, pointing out what information is available and attempting to pinpoint their objectives. However, a requestor has no obligation to state why information is being sought or for what purpose it will be used. If such information is provided, it cannot be used as grounds for denying the request.

A 2002 amendment allows agencies to require an individual requesting records to provide his or her name and legal address. Such identification is not mandated, but if requested at the discretion of the agency, must be furnished by the requestor before the records are provided. FOIA always has stated that its provisions are applicable to citizens of the Commonwealth of Virginia and representatives of news media circulating or broadcasting in or into Virginia. Again, it is a matter of discretion on the part of the agency whether to grant or deny access to records to individuals who do not fulfill this qualification. FOIA does not prescribe a minimum age for requestors. Thus, a request from a grade school student for information to use in an assignment requires the same response as would be provided to the student’s parent. A FOIA request from an employee of an agency should not be treated differently than a request from a citizen or representative of the media.

If either a written or verbal FOIA request for records or information contained in records is received, an initial response must be made within five working days after the request is received. There must be one of the following four responses:

(1) Make the requested record(s) available.

(2) Decline in writing to furnish the requested records, citing the specific part of FOIA which exempts them (in the case of law enforcement records, it frequently will be one or more of the provisions of Section 2.2-3706, “Disclosure of criminal records; limitations”) or any other statute which prohibits their release (e.g., Section 16.1-301, which restricts release of juvenile records) and including an approximate page count and general description of the subject matter withheld.

(3) If only a portion of the records requested are exempt from disclosure, delete or excise the portion which need not be disclosed, and make the rest available accompanied by a written statement identifying that portion of FOIA or other statute that allows the exemption.

(4) Respond in writing that the requested records cannot be identified and produced within five working days and the reasons therefore, thereby allowing an additional seven working days to identify the records and respond to the request. In highly unusual circumstances, a petition may be made to the circuit court for even more time to respond, if an accommodation cannot be reached between the agency and the requestor.

A fifth acceptable response is that the requested records never existed or are no longer available because they have been destroyed. Note that FOIA requires all responses (other than providing all requested records) to be in writing. A response must be given to each FOIA request, including cases where the same requestor repeatedly asks for the same documents which previously have been denied with citation of the appropriate exemption. Failure to respond constitutes a FOIA violation, as does failure to provide a specific code citation when claiming an exemption.

In the event that a requested record falls under more than one exemption, all applicable exemptions should be cited with the appropriate code.
section for each. For example, records of an internal affairs investigation of an employee would be exempt from disclosure as an administrative investigation conducted pursuant to law (Section 2.2-3706 (G)(3)) and as a record containing information concerning identifiable individuals (Section 2.2-3705.1 (I)). If an applicable exemption is not cited in the initial response to the requestor, the agency will be considered to have waived that exemption and may not subsequently claim it.

An agency may recover from the requestor actual costs associated with producing requested records, such as the direct cost for copying or for staff time spent on researching and locating the records. For many of the requests received by law enforcement agencies such costs may be minimal and may be waived in the interest of public relations and an informed citizenry. In the event that the estimated cost of producing the requested records exceeds $200, the agency may request payment in advance of processing the request. Actual costs means precisely that, such as the actual cost per page of photocopying or the hourly pay rate of any staff member involved; there can be no charge for “overhead,” such as electricity, building maintenance, etc. Costs of employee fringe benefits may not be included when calculating charges. If a requestor has failed to pay charges for a previous FOIA request for more than 30 days, an agency is not required to respond to subsequent FOIA requests from that requestor until the overdue balance is paid. If a requestor asks for an estimate of costs, it must be provided. An agency is not allowed to charge a requestor for costs of compiling records prior to receipt of the request.

FOIA does not provide for “standing requests,” as for all future “criminal incident information” reports an agency may produce. FOIA can be applied only to records which already are in existence.

Persons incarcerated in any local, state, or federal correctional facility cannot request records under FOIA, but do retain the right to call for records which may be used as evidence in a criminal prosecution in which they are involved.

FOIA does not require an agency to produce a new document if the requested information is not recorded. However, if the request can be fulfilled by adapting an existing document it must be done. Examples would include making available selected fields from computerized data or redacting information from existing written reports to comply with requests for “criminal incident information.”
“Criminal Incident Information”

This is undoubtedly the type of information requested most frequently from law enforcement agencies, not only by the news media, but also by interested citizens and other requestors. As defined in FOIA, this is minimal information about an event, frequently much less than an agency would typically disclose. Note, for example, that suspect descriptions, which are commonly made public in such cases as robbery, are not required components of “criminal incident information.” Following is a discussion of each of the required components.

“General description of the criminal activity reported”: This means the nature of the offense, though the specific criminal charge which may be involved need not be specified. For example, “sexual assault” may be used rather than the more specific terms of rape, sodomy, sexual battery and similar offenses. “Drug law violation” could be used without specifying the substance involved or whether the case involved possession or distribution.

“The date and general location the alleged crime was committed”: A specific date should generally be provided, though in some cases a time frame may be appropriate. While the approximate time an event occurred is not required, it may be provided. Street and hundred block is one of the most frequently used methods of identifying location. However, if a street or block contains only several residences or buildings, use of a geographic, community or subdivision locator identity may be appropriate if protection of a victim’s identity is desired.

“Identity of the investigating officer”: Self-explanatory, but could include either an officer taking an initial report or a detective assigned to follow up on a case. While this information must be furnished if a requestor wants it, as a practical matter it generally is not needed as long as there is a point of contact for additional information, such as a public information officer.

“A general description of any injuries suffered or property damaged or stolen”: Phrases such as “stab wound,” “life-threatening injuries,” or “injuries which are not life threatening” are appropriate. Property may be described in such terms as “construction materials,” “household goods,” or “assorted merchandise.” Money may be described as “cash” and specific amounts need not be disclosed.

Even this minimal amount of information may be withheld if one or more of the following circumstances applies should it be released: (1) Jeopardize an ongoing investigation or prosecution; (2) Jeopardize the safety of an individual; (3) Cause a suspect to flee or evade detection; (4) Result in the destruction of evidence. It is important to note that the “criminal incident information” may be withheld only until the specified damage is no longer likely to occur from release of the information. It should be noted that the exemption applying to jeopardizing an ongoing investigation applies not only to investigations being conducted by the agency in possession of the information, but also to investigations being conducted by other law enforcement agencies.

The act also states that nothing in the exemption section should be construed to prohibit the release of those portions of “criminal incident information” that are not likely to cause the specified damage.

While “criminal incident information” is required to be released for felonies only, release of such information in misdemeanor cases is not prohibited. Many agencies, particularly smaller ones where misdemeanors constitute a significant portion of their case loads, may find it desirable to release information about such cases in the interest of informing the community about such problems as vandalism, vehicle tampering or shoplifting.

Arrest Records

With the exception of juvenile offenders, the identities of persons arrested, the charges against them, and the status of the charge or arrest must be released without exception. This applies to felony, misdemeanor and traffic arrests. Any chronological listing of adult arrests is a public document. However, the Code of Virginia, reflecting federal mandates, prohibits the dissemination of criminal history record information outside the law enforcement community by law enforcement agencies. Section 9.1-126 of the Code of Virginia states that there is no prohibition on a criminal justice agency from disclosing to the public factual information concerning the status of an investigation, the apprehension, arrest, release or prosecution of an individual, the adjudication of charges, or the correctional status of an individual, which is related to the offense for which that individual is currently within the criminal justice system. As a practical matter, it may be difficult for a law enforcement agency to ascertain the status of an individual beyond the initial stages of the criminal justice process. Therefore, the release of arrest information is commonly understood to apply to “reasonably contemporaneous” arrests to avoid placing a law enforcement agency in the position of violating the restrictions on release of criminal history record information. Requestors seeking older information may be advised to check court records, which are public.
It should be noted that Section 19.2-83.1 of the Code of Virginia requires law enforcement agencies to notify the school division superintendent of the arrest of any employee of that school division for a felony or Class 1 misdemeanor. That same section also requires notification of the superintendent of the arrest of any student in the school division age 18 or older for any of a group of offenses specified in that Section.

Arrestee Photographs

It is required that photographs of adults who are arrested be released if doing so will not jeopardize an investigation. For example, a photograph may be withheld if the person is to appear in either a photo or live lineup to avoid possible tainting of the process. However, once these activities are concluded, the photo must be released. If several agencies are involved in an investigation, coordination is essential to insure that the release of a photo by one agency does not jeopardize an investigation by another agency. There are no requirements in FOIA relating either to size or quality of adult arrestee photographs. It is important to note that the requirement to release applies to all adult arrestees who are photographed, regardless of whether they are charged with a felony or a misdemeanor. Unprocessed film does not constitute an existing record and the requirement to release does not apply until a photograph has been developed and printed. However, a digital photograph is considered a record immediately upon its capture and storage, and is therefore required to be released subject to the conditions stated above.

Protected Information

FOIA provides law enforcement agencies considerable leeway in protecting the identities of individuals with whom they may be involved in a variety of ways. The identities of victims, witnesses or undercover officers need not be disclosed, but may be at the discretion of the agency unless otherwise prohibited by law. Identities of persons providing information about a crime or criminal activity under a promise of anonymity (such as through a Crime Solvers program) will not be disclosed. Records pertaining to neighborhood watch programs, including information pertaining to individual participants, are exempt from disclosure.

Also exempted from mandatory disclosure is information which reveals investigative techniques or procedures, though an agency has the option to disclose these should it so desire. Records of reports submitted in confidence to state and local law enforcement agencies and campus police departments of colleges and universities need not be disclosed.
Criminal Investigations Information

This information enjoys extensive protection. Exempt from disclosure are all complaints, memoranda, correspondence, case files or reports, witness statements, and evidence relating to a criminal investigation (except for “criminal incident information” relating to felonies). The witness statement exemption would be specifically applicable to information provided to victim/witness assistance services offered by law enforcement agencies. Commonwealth’s attorneys are specifically defined as law enforcement officials, so criminal investigative materials remain protected when they are turned over to a prosecutor by a law enforcement agency. A 2005 Code amendment (32.1-283.4 (A)) states that information provided by law enforcement agencies to the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner during the course of a death investigation is not subject to the provisions of FOIA, thus affording the information the same degree of protection as if it were in the possession of a law enforcement agency.

Once again, it is important to note that a law enforcement agency has the discretion to release these materials at any time, even though FOIA extends the exemption to disclosure in perpetuity. There is no requirement for release of criminal investigations information after a case is closed. In many cases it will be deemed essential to withhold portions of investigative reports even after a case has been adjudicated. On the other hand, there may be portions of some case investigations which it would be in the public interest to eventually disclose. FOIA leaves that decision within the sole purview of the law enforcement agency.

Other Investigations and Records

While stating that all records kept by law enforcement agencies as required under Section 15.2-1722 (Certain Records to Be Kept By Police Chiefs and Sheriffs) shall be subject to FOIA, there are some broad exemptions in furtherance of law enforcement purposes. The one with the most wide-ranging applicability relates to noncriminal incident or other investigative reports or materials. Those portions containing identifying information of a personal, medical or financial nature where the release of such information could jeopardize the safety or privacy of any person are exempted from disclosure. This is a very broad exemption which requires judicious application to avoid accusations of abuse through overly broad application. Examples of information which can and should be protected under this exemption are: reports of suicide attempts, medical information obtained during unattended death investigations, credit card numbers and other identifying information recorded on lost property reports, and response to domestic disputes where no violence occurs.
9-1-1 recordings are not wholly exempted under the law. While those involving criminal investigations are wholly protected, those involving noncriminal incidents are only to the extent described above. For example, the words of a caller reporting a medical emergency could be excised from a recording (or deleted from a transcript) in order to protect individual privacy, but many of the words of the calltaker or dispatcher would be subject to release, as would such related records as response times.

Similar provisions, both as to exemption and release, apply to the in-car video recordings being utilized by an increasing number of law enforcement agencies. For example, a recording of a felony traffic stop and apprehension of a criminal suspect would be exempted as criminal investigative material. Those portions of a recording of a routine traffic stop containing identifying information regarding the occupants of the vehicle could be exempted while other portions would not. On the other hand, if there was a question of officer misconduct in connection with a traffic stop, the exemption pertaining to confidential administrative investigations would apply.

Exemptions are provided for: (1) Records of background investigations of applicants for law enforcement agency employment (whether an individual is hired or not) or other confidential administrative investigations, examples of which include internal affairs investigations or background checks for conservators of the peace; (2) Those portions of any records containing plans for or resources dedicated to undercover operations. For example, unmarked undercover vehicles could be excluded from agency’s fleet roster, which would otherwise be releasable.

Personnel records specifically identifying individuals, with the exception of salaries over $10,000 per year, are exempted from disclosure. This includes disciplinary actions, training records, time and attendance records, and assignment records. A 2004 amendment exempted law enforcement agency records containing the numbers of cellular telephones, pagers, or other portable communication devices provided to personnel.

Other records in the possession of a law enforcement agency, as well as correspondence, not falling into any of the previously discussed exempted categories, are subject to disclosure. This also applies to electronic messages. For example, an e-mail from a police chief to a deputy chief inquiring about certain aspects of a homicide investigation would be exempt from disclosure as criminal investigative materials. However, an e-mail from the chief to the deputy chief making unkind comments about the mayor would be subject to release under FOIA (and possibly be the subject of a headline in the local newspaper!). Both an incoming e-mail from a citizen regarding a concern such as traffic enforcement and the agency’s response to it would be required to be released under FOIA.

Other Exemptions

FOIA contains several other specific exemptions applicable to or of interest to law enforcement agencies in addition to those enumerated in Section 2.2-3706. They include:

Engineering and architectural drawings, operational, procedural, tactical planning or training manuals, or staff meeting minutes or other records, the disclosure of which would reveal surveillance techniques, personnel deployments, alarm or security systems or technologies, or operational and transportation plans or protocols, to the extent such disclosure would jeopardize the security of any governmental facility, building or structure or the safety of persons using such facility, building or structure. § 2.2-3705.2(6).

In 2002, this exemption was broadened to include any governmental building or facility or information storage system. Also expanded was the open meeting exemption to provide that a public body may hold a closed meeting for discussion of plans or briefings by staff members concerning actions taken to respond to terrorist activity or a related threat to public safety.

Law enforcement agency records containing specific tactical plans when their disclosure would jeopardize the safety or security of law enforcement personnel or the general public. Also included in this exemption are records of emergency services agencies containing specific tactical plans related to anti-terrorist activity. § 2.2-3706 (F)(7).

Any information describing the design, function, operation or access control features of any security system used to control access to or use of any automated data processing or telecommunications system. § 2.2-3705.2(3).

Subscriber data provided by a telecommunications carrier to an agency operating a 911, E-911 or reverse 911 system, if such records are not available to the general public. § 2.2-3705.2(11).
Information and records acquired during a review of any child death by the State Child Fatality Review Team. § 2.2-3705.5(9).

Confidential records, including victim identity, provided to staff of a rape crisis center or a program for battered spouses. § 2.2-3705.2(1).

Computer programs used to process data which may be included within official records. § 2.2-3705.1(6).

Tests or examinations administered to applicants for employment or candidates for promotion. §2.2-3705.1(4).

Agencies may be required to produce certain records in response to a subpoena duces tecum. In such cases, the Rules of the Supreme Court of Virginia — not FOIA — apply.

The open meetings provisions of FOIA contain an exemption permitting a governing body or other public body such as a school board to go into closed session for briefings by law enforcement or emergency service officials concerning the actions taken to respond to terrorist activity or a related threat to public safety.

Insuring Compliance

Because of the specific knowledge required and the broad discretion granted to law enforcement agencies, not all the personnel of an agency can or should be expected to be able to respond to requests for information, whether made formally referencing FOIA or casually by a citizen or reporter. There should be one or more knowledgeable individuals designated to respond to such requests. The identities and locations of these persons should be made known to all agency employees, especially “front line” employees such as officers or deputies, secretaries, station clerks, etc. The prompt, polite referral of the requestor to the person who can help them conveys a positive and professional image of the agency.

Conclusion

The underlying principle of FOIA is that the public has the right of access to the public’s business. Law enforcement activities must be, of necessity, one of the relatively few areas where that right of access must be limited. The Virginia FOIA, as amended, does this quite effectively to insure accomplishment of the law enforcement mission. Nonetheless, law enforcement agencies have an obligation to responsibly make available to the public, whether represented by a private citizen or a news media reporter, not only that information mandated as releasable by FOIA, but also additional information which will serve to enhance the public’s understanding of the agency and its work.

The Virginia Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), located § 2.2-3700 et seq. of the Code of Virginia, guarantees citizens of the Commonwealth and representatives of the media access to public records held by public bodies, public officials, and public employees.

A public record is any writing or recording — regardless of whether it is a paper record, an electronic file, an audio or video recording, or any other format — that is prepared or owned by, or in the possession of a public body or its officers, employees or agents in the transaction of public business. All public records are presumed to be open, and may only be withheld if a specific, statutory exemption applies.

The policy of FOIA states that the purpose of FOIA is to promote an increased awareness by all persons of governmental activities. In furthering this policy, FOIA requires that the law be interpreted liberally, in favor of access, and that any exemption allowing public records to be withheld must be interpreted narrowly.

Your FOIA Rights

• You have the right to request to inspect or receive copies of public records, or both.

• You have the right to request that any charges for the requested records be estimated in advance.

• If you believe that your FOIA rights have been violated, you may file a petition in district or circuit court to compel compliance with FOIA.

Making a Request for Records from the <AGENCY>:

• You may request records by U.S. mail, fax, e-mail, in person, or over the phone. FOIA does not require that your request be in writing, nor do you need to specifically state that you are requesting records under FOIA.

  ◦ From a practical perspective, it may be helpful to both you and the person receiving your request to put your request in writing. This allows you to create a record of your request. It also gives us a clear statement of what records you are requesting, so that there is no misunderstanding over a verbal request. However, we cannot refuse to respond to your FOIA request if you elect not to put it in writing.

• Your request must identify the records you are seeking with “reasonable specificity.” This is a common-sense standard. It does not refer to or limit the volume or number of records that you are requesting; instead, it requires that you be specific enough so that we can identify and locate the records that you are seeking.

• Your request must ask for existing records or documents. FOIA gives you a right to inspect or copy records; it does not apply to a situation where you are asking general questions about the work of the <AGENCY> nor does it require the agency to create a record that does not exist.

• You may choose to receive electronic records in any format used by the <AGENCY> in the regular course of business.
  - For example, if you are requesting records maintained in an Excel database, you may elect to receive those records electronically, via e-mail or on a computer disk, or to receive a printed copy of those records.

If we have questions about your request, please cooperate with staff’s efforts to clarify the type of records that you are seeking, or to attempt to reach a reasonable agreement about a response to a large request. Making a FOIA request is not an adversarial process, but we may need to discuss your request with you to ensure that we understand what records you are seeking.

To request records from the <AGENCY>, you may direct your request to:

  <E-MAIL ADDRESS>
The <AGENCY>’s Responsibilities in Responding to Your Request

• The <AGENCY> must respond to your request within five working days of receiving it. “Day One” is considered the day after your request is received. The five-day period does not include weekends or holidays.

• The reason behind your request for public records from the <AGENCY> is irrelevant, and we cannot ask you why you want the records before we respond to your request. FOIA does, however, allow us to ask you to provide your name and legal address.

• FOIA requires that the <AGENCY> make one of the following responses to your request within the five-day time period:

1) We provide you with the records that you have requested in their entirety.

2) We withhold all of the records that you have requested, because all of the records are subject to a specific statutory exemption. If all of the records are being withheld, we must send you a response in writing. That writing must identify the volume and subject matter of the records being withheld, and state the specific section of the Code of Virginia that allows us to withhold the records.

3) We provide some of the records that you have requested, but withhold other records. We cannot withhold an entire record if only a portion of it is subject to an exemption. In that instance, we may redact the portion of the record that may be withheld, and must provide you with the remainder of the record. We must provide you with a written response stating the specific section of the Code of Virginia that allows portions of the requested records to be withheld.

4) If it is practically impossible to respond to your request within the five-day period, we must state this in writing, explaining the conditions that make the response impossible. This will allow us seven additional working days to respond to your request, giving us a total of 12 working days to respond to your request.

• If you make a request for a very large number of records, and we feel that we cannot provide the records to you within 12 days without disrupting our other organizational responsibilities, we may petition the court for additional time to respond to your request. However, FOIA requires that we make a reasonable effort to reach an agreement with you concerning the production or the records before we go to court to ask for more time.

Costs

• You may have to pay for the records that you request. FOIA allows us to charge for the actual costs of responding to FOIA requests. This would include items like staff time spent searching for the requested records, copying costs, or any other costs directly related to supplying the requested records. It cannot include general overhead costs.

• If we estimate that it will cost more than $200 to respond to your request, we may require you to pay a deposit, not to exceed the amount of the estimate, before proceeding with your request. The five days that we have to respond to your request does not include the time between when we ask for a deposit and when you respond.

• You may request that we estimate in advance the charges for supplying the records that you have requested. This will allow you to know about any costs upfront, or give you the opportunity to modify your request in an attempt to lower the estimated costs.

• If you owe us money from a previous FOIA request that has remained unpaid for more than 30 days, we may require payment of the past-due bill before it will respond to your new FOIA request.

Commonly Used Exemptions

The Code of Virginia allows any public body to withhold certain records from public disclosure. The <AGENCY> commonly withholds records subject to the following exemptions:

• Personnel records (§ 2.2-3705.1 (1) of the Code of Virginia) or records relating to administrative investigations (2.2-3705.3 of the Code of Virginia).

• Records relating to public safety (§ 2.2-3705.2 of the Code of Virginia)

• Criminal Record exemptions (2.2-3706 of the Code of Virginia)

• Confidential law enforcement records concerning a juvenile except to persons authorized to receive such information under 16.1-301 of the Code of Virginia.
CODE OF VIRGINIA

§ 2.2-3700. Short title; policy.

B. By enacting this chapter, the General Assembly ensures the people of the Commonwealth ready access to public records in the custody of a public body or its officers and employees, and free entry to meetings of public bodies wherein the business of the people is being conducted. The affairs of government are not intended to be conducted in an atmosphere of secrecy since at all times the public is to be the beneficiary of any action taken at any level of government. Unless a public body or its officers or employees specifically elect to exercise an exemption provided by this chapter or any other statute, every meeting shall be open to the public and all public records shall be available for inspection and copying upon request. All public records and meetings shall be presumed open, unless an exemption is properly invoked.

The provisions of this chapter shall be liberally construed to promote an increased awareness by all persons of governmental activities and afford every opportunity to citizens to witness the operations of government. Any exemption from public access to records or meetings shall be narrowly construed and no record shall be withheld or meeting closed to the public unless specifically made exempt pursuant to this chapter or other specific provision of law. This chapter shall not be construed to discourage the free discussion by government officials or employees of public matters with the citizens of the Commonwealth.

All public bodies and their officers and employees shall make reasonable efforts to reach an agreement with a requester concerning the production of the records requested.

Any ordinance adopted by a local governing body that conflicts with the provisions of this chapter shall be void.

§ 2.2-3704. Public records to be open to inspection; procedure for requesting records and responding to request; charges.

A. Except as otherwise specifically provided by law, all public records shall be open to inspection and copying by any citizens of the Commonwealth during the regular office hours of the custodian of such records. Access to such records shall not be denied to citizens of the Commonwealth, representatives of newspapers and magazines with circulation in the Commonwealth, and representatives of radio and television stations broadcasting in or into the Commonwealth. The custodian may require the requester to provide his name and legal address. The custodian of such records shall take all necessary precautions for their preservation and safekeeping.
B. A request for public records shall identify the requested records with reasonable specificity. The request need not make reference to this chapter in order to invoke the provisions of this chapter or to impose the time limits for response by a public body. Any public body that is subject to this chapter and that is the custodian of the requested records shall promptly, but in all cases within five working days of receiving a request, make one of the following responses:

1. The requested records will be provided to the requester.

2. The requested records will be entirely withheld because their release is prohibited by law or the custodian has exercised his discretion to withhold the records in accordance with this chapter. Such response shall (i) be in writing, (ii) identify with reasonable particularity the volume and subject matter of withheld records, and (iii) cite, as to each category of withheld records, the specific Code section that authorizes the withholding of the records.

3. The requested records will be provided in part and withheld in part because the release of part of the records is prohibited by law or the custodian has exercised his discretion to withhold a portion of the records in accordance with this chapter. Such response shall (i) be in writing, (ii) identify with reasonable particularity the subject matter of withheld portions, and (iii) cite, as to each category of withheld records, the specific Code section that authorizes the withholding of the records. When a portion of a requested record is withheld, the public body may delete or excise only that portion of the record to which an exemption applies and shall release the remainder of the record.

4. It is not practically possible to provide the requested records or to determine whether they are available within the five-work-day period. Such response shall be in writing and specify the conditions that make a response impossible. If the response is made within five working days, the public body shall have an additional seven work days in which to provide one of the three preceding responses.

C. Any public body may petition the appropriate court for additional time to respond to a request for records when the request is for an extraordinary volume of records and a response by the public body within the time required by this chapter will prevent the public body from meeting its operational responsibilities. Before proceeding with the petition, however, the public body shall make reasonable efforts to reach an agreement with the requester concerning the production of the records requested.

D. Subject to the provisions of subsections G and J, no public body shall be required to create a new record if the record does not already exist. However, a public body may abstract or summarize information under such terms and conditions as agreed between the requester and the public body.

E. Failure to respond to a request for records shall be deemed a denial of the request and shall constitute a violation of this chapter.

F. A public body may make reasonable charges not to exceed its actual cost incurred in accessing, duplicating, supplying, or searching for the requested records. No public body shall impose any extraneous, intermediary or surplus fees or expenses to recoup the general costs associated with creating or maintaining records or transacting the general business of the public body. Any duplicating fee charged by a public body shall not exceed the actual cost of duplication. The public body may also make a reasonable charge for the cost incurred in supplying records produced from a geographic information system at the request of anyone other than the owner of the land that is the subject of the request. However, such charges shall not exceed the actual cost to the public body in supplying such records, except that the public body may charge, on a pro rata per acre basis, for the cost of creating topographical maps developed by the public body, for such maps or portions thereof, which encompass a contiguous area greater than 50 acres. All charges for the supplying of requested records shall be estimated in advance at the request of the citizen.

G. Public records maintained by a public body in an electronic data processing system, computer database, or any other structured collection of data shall be made available to a requester at a reasonable cost, not to exceed the actual cost in accordance with subsection F. When electronic or other databases are combined or contain exempt and nonexempt records, the public body may provide access to the exempt records if not otherwise prohibited by law, but shall provide access to the nonexempt records as provided by this chapter.

Public bodies shall produce nonexempt records maintained in an electronic database in any tangible medium identified by the requester, including, where the public body has the capability, the option of posting the records on a website or delivering the records through an electronic mail address provided by the requester, if that medium is used by the public body in the regular course of business. No public body shall be required to produce records from an electronic database in a format not regularly used by the public body. However, the public body shall make reasonable efforts to provide records in any format under such terms and conditions as agreed between the requester and public body, including the payment of reasonable costs. The excision of exempt fields of information from a database or the conversion of data from one available format to another shall not be deemed the creation, preparation or compilation of a new public record.

H. In any case where a public body determines in advance that charges for producing the requested records are likely to exceed $200, the public body may, before continuing to process the request, require the requester to agree to payment of a deposit not to exceed the amount of the advance determination. The deposit shall be credited toward the final cost of supplying the requested records. The period within which the public body shall respond under this section shall be tolled for the amount of time that elapses between notice of the advance determination and the response of the requester.

I. Before processing a request for records, a public body may require the requester to pay any amounts owed to the public body for previous requests for records that remain unpaid 30 days or more after billing.
J. Every public body of state government shall compile, and annually update, an index of computer databases that contains at a minimum those databases created by them on or after July 1, 1997. “Computer database” means a structured collection of data or records residing in a computer. Such index shall be a public record and shall include, at a minimum, the following information with respect to each database listed therein: a list of data fields, a description of the format or record layout, the date last updated, a list of any data fields to which public access is restricted, a description of each format in which the database can be copied or reproduced using the public body’s computer facilities, and a schedule of fees for the production of copies in each available form. The form, context, language, and guidelines for the indices and the databases to be indexed shall be developed by the Virginia Information Technologies Agency in consultation with the Librarian of Virginia and the State Archivist. The public body shall not be required to disclose its software security, including passwords.

§ 2.2-3705.1. Exclusions to application of chapter; exclusions of general application to public bodies.

The following records are excluded from the provisions of this chapter but may be disclosed by the custodian in his discretion, except where such disclosure is prohibited by law:

1. Personnel records containing information concerning identifiable individuals, except that access shall not be denied to the person who is the subject thereof. Any person who is the subject of any personnel record and who is 18 years of age or older may waive, in writing, the protections afforded by this subdivision. If the protections are so waived, the public body shall open such records for inspection and copying.

2. Written advice of legal counsel to state, regional or local public bodies or the officers or employees of such public bodies, and any other records protected by the attorney-client privilege.

3. Legal memoranda and other work product compiled specifically for use in litigation or for use in an active administrative investigation concerning a matter that is properly the subject of a closed meeting under § 2.2-3711.

4. Any test or examination used, administered or prepared by any public body for purposes of evaluation of (i) any student or any student’s performance,
(ii) any employee or employment seeker’s qualifications or aptitude for employment, retention, or promotion, or (iii) qualifications for any license or certificate issued by a public body.

As used in this subdivision, “test or examination” shall include (a) any scoring key for any such test or examination and (b) any other document that would jeopardize the security of the test or examination. Nothing contained in this subdivision shall prohibit the release of test scores or results as provided by law, or limit access to individual records as provided by law. However, the subject of such employment tests shall be entitled to review and inspect all records relative to his performance on such employment tests.

When, in the reasonable opinion of such public body, any such test or examination no longer has any potential for future use, and the security of future tests or examinations will not be jeopardized, the test or examination shall be made available to the public. However, minimum competency tests administered to public school children shall be made available to the public contemporaneously with statewide release of the scores of those taking such tests, but in no event shall such tests be made available to the public later than six months after the administration of such tests.

5. Records recorded in or compiled exclusively for use in closed meetings lawfully held pursuant to § 2.2-3711. However, no record that is otherwise open to inspection under this chapter shall be deemed exempt by virtue of the fact that it has been reviewed or discussed in a closed meeting.

6. Vendor proprietary information software that may be in the official records of a public body. For the purpose of this subdivision, “vendor proprietary software” means computer programs acquired from a vendor for purposes of processing data for agencies or political subdivisions of the Commonwealth.

7. Computer software developed by or for a state agency, state-supported institution of higher education or political subdivision of the Commonwealth.

8. Appraisals and cost estimates of real property subject to a proposed purchase, sale or lease, prior to the completion of such purchase, sale or lease.

9. Records concerning reserves established in specific claims administered by the Department of the Treasury through its Division of Risk Management as provided in Article 5 (§ 2.2-1832 et seq.) of Chapter 18 of this title, or by any county, city, or town; and investigative notes, correspondence and information furnished in confidence with respect to an investigation of a claim or a potential claim against a public body’s insurance policy or self-insurance plan. However, nothing in this subdivision shall prohibit the disclosure of information taken from inactive reports upon expiration of the period of limitations for the filing of a civil suit.

10. Personal information, as defined in § 2.2-3801, including electronic mail addresses, furnished to a public body for the purpose of receiving electronic mail from the public body, provided that the electronic mail recipient has requested that the public body not disclose such information. However, access shall not be denied to the person who is the subject of the record.
11. Communications and materials required to be kept confidential pursuant to § 2.2-4119 of the Virginia Administrative Dispute Resolution Act (§ 2.2-4115 et seq.).

12. Records relating to the negotiation and award of a specific contract where competition or bargaining is involved and where the release of such records would adversely affect the bargaining position or negotiating strategy of the public body. Such records shall not be withheld after the public body has made a decision to award or not to award the contract. In the case of procurement transactions conducted pursuant to the Virginia Public Procurement Act (§ 2.2-4300 et seq.), the provisions of this subdivision shall not apply, and any release of records relating to such transactions shall be governed by the Virginia Public Procurement Act.

§ 2.2-3705.2. Exclusions to application of chapter; records relating to public safety.

The following records are excluded from the provisions of this chapter but may be disclosed by the custodian in his discretion, except where such disclosure is prohibited by law:

1. Confidential records, including victim identity, provided to or obtained by staff in a rape crisis center or a program for battered spouses.

2. Those portions of engineering and construction drawings and plans submitted for the sole purpose of complying with the Building Code in obtaining a building permit that would identify specific trade secrets or other information, the disclosure of which would be harmful to the competitive position of the owner or lessee. However, such information shall be exempt only until the building is completed. Information relating to the safety or environmental soundness of any building shall not be exempt from disclosure.

Those portions of engineering and construction drawings and plans that reveal critical structural components, security equipment and systems, ventilation systems, fire protection equipment, mandatory building emergency equipment or systems, elevators, electrical systems, telecommunications equipment and systems, and other utility equipment and systems submitted for the purpose of complying with the Uniform Statewide Building Code (§ 36-97 et seq.) or the Statewide Fire Prevention Code (§ 27-94 et seq.), the disclosure of which would jeopardize the safety or security of any public or private commercial office, multifamily residential or retail building or its occupants in the event of terrorism or other threat to public safety, to the extent that the owner or lessee of such property, equipment or system in writing (i) invokes the protections of this paragraph; (ii) identifies the drawings, plans, or other materials to be protected; and (iii) states the reasons why protection is necessary.
Nothing in this subdivision shall prevent the disclosure of information relating to any building in connection with an inquiry into the performance of that building after it has been subjected to fire, explosion, natural disaster or other catastrophic event.

3. Documentation or other information that describes the design, function, operation or access control features of any security system, whether manual or automated, which is used to control access to or use of any automated data processing or telecommunications system.

4. Plans and information to prevent or respond to terrorist activity, the disclosure of which would jeopardize the safety of any person, including (i) critical infrastructure sector or structural components; (ii) vulnerability assessments, operational, procedural, transportation, and tactical planning or training manuals, and staff meeting minutes or other records; and (iii) engineering or architectural records, or records containing information derived from such records, to the extent such records reveal the location or operation of security equipment and systems, elevators, ventilation, fire protection, emergency, electrical, telecommunications or utility equipment and systems of any public building, structure or information storage facility, or telecommunications or utility equipment or systems. The same categories of records of any governmental or nongovernmental person or entity submitted to a public body for the purpose of antiterrorism response planning may be withheld from disclosure if such person or entity in writing (a) invokes the protections of this subdivision, (b) identifies with specificity the records or portions thereof for which protection is sought, and (c) states with reasonable particularity why the protection of such records from public disclosure is necessary to meet the objective of antiterrorism planning or protection. Such statement shall be a public record and shall be disclosed upon request. Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to prohibit the disclosure of records relating to the structural or environmental soundness of any building, nor shall it prevent the disclosure of information relating to any building in connection with an inquiry into the performance of that building after it has been subjected to fire, explosion, natural disaster or other catastrophic event.

5. Information that would disclose the security aspects of a system safety program plan adopted pursuant to 49 C.F.R. Part 659 by the Commonwealth’s designated Rail Fixed Guideway Systems Safety Oversight agency; and information in the possession of such agency, the release of which would jeopardize the success of an ongoing investigation of a rail accident or other incident threatening railway safety.

6. Engineering and architectural drawings, operational, procedural, tactical planning or training manuals, or staff meeting minutes or other records, the disclosure of which would reveal surveillance techniques, personnel deployments, alarm or security systems or technologies, or operational and transportation plans or protocols, to the extent such disclosure would jeopardize the security of any governmental facility, building or structure or the safety of persons using such facility, building or structure.
7. Security plans and specific assessment components of school safety audits, as provided in § 22.1-279.8.

Nothing in this subdivision shall be construed to prohibit the disclosure of records relating to the effectiveness of security plans after (i) any school building or property has been subjected to fire, explosion, natural disaster or other catastrophic event, or (ii) any person on school property has suffered or been threatened with any personal injury.

8. (Expires July 1, 2006) Records of the Virginia Commission on Military Bases created by the Governor pursuant to Executive Order No. 49 (2003), to the extent that such records contain information relating to vulnerabilities of military bases located in Virginia and strategies under consideration or developed by the Commission to limit the effect of or to prevent the realignment or closure of federal military bases located in Virginia.

9. Records of the Commitment Review Committee concerning the mental health assessment of an individual subject to commitment as a sexually violent predator under Chapter 9 (§ 37.2-900 et seq.) of Title 37.2; except that in no case shall records identifying the victims of a sexually violent predator be disclosed.

10. Subscriber data, which for the purposes of this subdivision, means the name, address, telephone number, and any other information identifying a subscriber of a telecommunications carrier, provided directly or indirectly by a telecommunications carrier to a public body that operates a 911 or E-911 emergency dispatch system or an emergency notification or reverse 911 system, if the data is in a form not made available by the telecommunications carrier to the public generally. Nothing in this subdivision shall prevent the release of subscriber data generated in connection with specific calls to a 911 emergency system, where the requester is seeking to obtain public records about the use of the system in response to a specific crime, emergency or other event as to which a citizen has initiated a 911 call.

11. Subscriber data, which for the purposes of this subdivision, means the name, address, telephone number, and any other information identifying a subscriber of a telecommunications carrier, collected by a local governing body in accordance with the Enhanced Public Safety Telephone Services Act (§ 56-484.12 et seq.), and other identifying information of a personal, medical, or financial nature provided to a local governing body in connection with a 911 or E-911 emergency dispatch system or an emergency notification or reverse 911 system, if such records are not otherwise publicly available. Nothing in this subdivision shall prevent the release of subscriber data generated in connection with specific calls to a 911 emergency system, where the requester is seeking to obtain public records about the use of the system in response to a specific crime, emergency or other event as to which a citizen has initiated a 911 call.

§ 2.2-3706. Disclosure of criminal records; limitations.

A. As used in this section:

“Criminal incident information” means a general description of the criminal activity reported, the date and general location the alleged crime was committed, the identity of the investigating officer, and a general description of any injuries suffered or property damaged or stolen.

B. Law-enforcement agencies shall make available upon request criminal incident information relating to felony offenses. However, where the release of criminal incident information is likely to jeopardize an ongoing investigation or prosecution, or the safety of an individual; cause a suspect to flee or evade detection; or result in the destruction of evidence, such information may be withheld until the above-referenced damage is no longer likely to occur from release of the information. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit the release of those portions of such information that are not likely to cause the above-referenced damage.

C. Information in the custody of law-enforcement agencies relative to the identity of any individual, other than a juvenile, who is arrested and charged, and the status of the charge or arrest shall be released.

D. The identity of any victim, witness or undercover officer, or investigative techniques or procedures need not but may be disclosed unless disclosure is prohibited or restricted under § 19.2-11.2.

E. The identity of any individual providing information about a crime or criminal activity under a promise of anonymity shall not be disclosed.

F. The following records are excluded from the provisions of this chapter, but may be disclosed by the custodian, in his discretion, except where such disclosure is prohibited by law:

1. Complaints, memoranda, correspondence, case files or reports, witness statements, and evidence relating to a criminal investigation or prosecution, other than criminal incident information as defined in subsection A;

2. Adult arrestee photographs when necessary to avoid jeopardizing an investigation in felony cases until such time as the release of the photograph will no longer jeopardize the investigation;

3. Reports submitted in confidence to (i) state and local law-enforcement agencies, (ii) investigators authorized pursuant to § 53.1-16 or § 66-3.1, and (iii) campus police departments of public institutions of higher education established pursuant to Chapter 17 (§ 23-232 et seq.) of Title 23;

4. Portions of records of local government crime commissions that would identify individuals providing information about crimes or criminal activities under a promise of anonymity;

5. Records of local law-enforcement agencies relating to neighborhood watch programs that include the names, addresses, and operating schedules of individual participants in the program that are provided to such agencies under a promise of anonymity;

6. All records of persons imprisoned in penal institutions in the Commonwealth provided such records relate to the imprisonment;

7. Records of law-enforcement agencies, to the extent that such records contain specific tactical plans, the disclosure of which would jeopardize the safety or security of law-enforcement personnel or the general public;

8. All records of adult persons under (i) investigation or supervision by a local pretrial services agency in accordance with Article 5 (§ 19.2-152.2 et seq.) of Chapter 9 of Title 19.2; (ii) investigation, probation supervision or monitoring by a local community-based probation program in accordance with Article 9 (§ 9.1-173 et seq.) of Chapter 1 of Title 9.1; or (iii) investigation or supervision by state probation and parole services in accordance with Article 2 (§ 53.1-141 et seq.) of Chapter 4 of Title 53.1; and

9. Records of a law-enforcement agency to the extent that they disclose the telephone numbers for cellular telephones, pagers, or comparable portable communication devices provided to its personnel for use in the performance of their official duties.

G. Records kept by law-enforcement agencies as required by § 15.2-1722 shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter except:

1. Those portions of noncriminal incident or other investigative reports or materials containing identifying information of a personal, medical or financial nature provided to a law-enforcement agency where the release of such information would jeopardize the safety or privacy of any person;

2. Those portions of any records containing information related to plans for or resources dedicated to undercover operations; or

3. Records of background investigations of applicants for law-enforcement agency employment or other confidential administrative investigations conducted pursuant to law.

H. Records of the Sex Offender and Crimes Against Minors Registry maintained by the Department of State Police pursuant to Chapter 9 (§ 9.1-900 et seq.) of Title 9.1 are excluded from the provisions of this chapter, including information obtained from state, local and regional officials, except to the extent that information is required to be posted on the Internet pursuant to § 9.1-913.

I. In the event of conflict between this section as it relates to requests made under this section and other provisions of law, this section shall control.

§ 15.2-1722. Certain records to be kept by sheriffs and chiefs of police.

A. It shall be the duty of the sheriff or chief of police of every locality to insure, in addition to other records required by law, the maintenance of adequate personnel, arrest, investigative, reportable incidents, and noncriminal incidents records necessary for the efficient operation of a law-enforcement agency. Failure of a sheriff or a chief of police to maintain such records or failure to relinquish such records to his successor in office shall constitute a misdemeanor. Former sheriffs or chiefs of police shall be allowed access to such files for preparation of a defense in any suit or action arising from the performance of their official duties as sheriff or chief of police. The enforcement of this section shall be the duty of the attorney for the Commonwealth of the county or city wherein the violation occurs.

B. For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

“Arrest records” means a compilation of information, centrally maintained in law-enforcement custody, of any arrest or temporary detention of an individual, including the identity of the person arrested or detained, the nature of the arrest or detention, and the charge, if any.

“Investigative records” means the reports of any systematic inquiries or examinations into criminal or suspected criminal acts which have been committed, are being committed, or are about to be committed.

“Noncriminal incidents records” means compilations of noncriminal occurrences of general interest to law-enforcement agencies, such as missing persons, lost and found property, suicides and accidental deaths.

“Personnel records” means those records maintained on each and every individual employed by a law-enforcement agency which reflect personal data concerning the employee’s age, length of service, amount of training, education, compensation level, and other pertinent personal information.

“Reportable incidents records” means a compilation of complaints received by a law-enforcement agency and action taken by the agency in response thereto.

(1975, c. 290, § 15.1-135.1; 1979, c. 686; 1981, c. 284; 1997, c. 587; 1999, cc. 703, 726.)

§ 16.1-301. Confidentiality of law-enforcement records; disclosures to school principal.

A. The court shall require all law-enforcement agencies to take special precautions to ensure that law-enforcement records concerning a juvenile are protected against disclosure to any unauthorized person. The police departments of the cities of the Commonwealth, and the police departments or sheriffs of the counties, as the case may be, shall keep separate records as to violations of law other than violations of motor vehicle laws committed by juveniles. Such records with respect to such juvenile shall not be open to public inspection nor their contents disclosed to the public unless a juvenile 14

If a chief of police, sheriff or a designee has disclosed to a school principal pursuant to this section that a juvenile is a suspect in or has been charged with a crime listed above, upon a court disposition of a proceeding regarding such crime in which a juvenile is adjudicated delinquent, convicted, found not guilty or the charges are reduced, the chief of police, sheriff or a designee shall, within 15 days of the expiration of the appeal period, if there is no notice of appeal, provide notice of the disposition ordered by the court to the school principal to whom disclosure was made. If the court defers disposition or if charges are withdrawn, dismissed or nolle prosequi, the chief of police, sheriff or a designee shall, within 15 days of such action provide notice of such action to the school principal to whom disclosure was made. If charges are withdrawn in intake or handled informally without a court disposition or if charges are not filed within 90 days of the initial disclosure, the chief of police, sheriff or a designee shall so notify the school principal to whom disclosure was made.

Nothing in this section shall preclude each local law-enforcement agency from maintaining its own separate photographic database.

2. For persons arrested and released on summonses in accordance with § 19.2-74, such report shall not be required until (i) a conviction is entered and no appeal is noted or if an appeal is noted, the conviction is upheld upon appeal or the person convicted withdraws his appeal; (ii) the court dismisses the proceeding pursuant to § 18.2-251; or (iii) an acquittal by reason of insanity pursuant to § 19.2-182.2 is entered. In the case of offenses not required to be reported to the Exchange by subsection A, the reports of any of the foregoing dispositions shall be filed by the law-enforcement agency making the arrest with the arrest record required to be maintained by § 15.2-1722. Upon conviction of any person, including juveniles tried and convicted in the circuit courts pursuant to § 16.1-269.1, whether sentenced as adults or juveniles, for an offense for which registration is required as defined in § 9.1-902, the clerk shall within seven days of sentencing submit a report to the Sex Offender and Crimes Against Minors Registry. The report to the Registry shall include the name of the person convicted and all aliases which he is known to have used, the date and locality of the conviction for which registration is required, his date of birth, social security number, last known address, and specific reference to the offense for which he was convicted. No report of conviction or adjudication in a district court shall be filed unless the period allowed for an appeal has elapsed and no appeal has been perfected. In the event that the records in the office of any clerk show that any conviction or adjudication has been nullified in any manner, he shall also make a report of that fact to the Exchange and, if appropriate, to the Registry. In addition, each clerk of a circuit court, upon receipt of certification thereof from the Supreme Court, shall report to the Exchange or the Registry, or to the law-enforcement agency making the arrest in the case of offenses not required to be reported to the Exchange, on forms provided by the Exchange or Registry, as the case may be, any reversal or other amendment to a prior sentence or disposition previously reported. When criminal process is ordered destroyed pursuant to § 19.2-76.1, the clerk shall report such action to the law-enforcement agency that entered the warrant or capias into the VCIN system.

H. Upon receiving a correction, deletion, or revision of information, the Central Criminal Records Exchange shall notify all criminal justice agencies known to have previously received the information.

As used in this section, the term “chief law-enforcement officer” means the chief of police of cities and towns and sheriffs of counties, unless a political subdivision has otherwise designated its chief law-enforcement officer by appropriate resolution or ordinance, in which case the local designation shall be controlling.
